Character Chart:

Name:

Story Goal:

What Gets in the Way:

Motivation:

What They Learn (Epiphany):

One-sentence Summary:

Character Detail Sheet:

Name (For identification purposes and organization):

Gender:

Background/Backstory:

Current Occupation:

Hair Color:

Eye Color:

Height:

Weight:

Typical Attire:

Any Unique Identifying Marks/Traits (Tattoos, Scars, Piercings, Etc.):

Skills/Talents They Have:

Skills/Talents They Don't Have:

Family:

Closest Friends:

Worst Enemies:

Things That Make Them Feel Loved:

Behaviors They Can't Stand:

Moral Code (Lawful, Lawful Neutral, Etc.):

Personality Type:

Character Strengths:

Character Weaknesses:

Attitude Toward The Opposite Gender:

Ideal Place to Live:

Ideal Romantic Partner:

Hobbies:

Weapons (If they use them):

Languages They Speak (If relevant):

Ideal Living Space (Do they keep things neat or leave it all cluttered? What do they need to be in their home/room no matter where they are to feel comfortable?)

Life Goals (Not the same as their story goal):

Needs (This section includes anything they have to have in life to feel complete. It could be anything from needing their favorite pillow to sleep at night to needing an adrenaline rush to feel like they're alive. But it needs to be stuff they'd be lost without, things they feel they can't live without.):

One Thing They Love About Themselves:

One Thing They Hate About Themselves:

Life Decisions They Regret the Most:

Fears:

Phobias (Different than fears. Phobias are extreme, irrational fears that people have strong difficulties overcoming. Examples might be acrophobia or claustrophobia.):

The One Thing In Their Past They Most Want to Forget:

Things That Keep Them Awake at Night:

Things That Make Them Happiest:

Things That Make Them Saddest:

One Paragraph Summary of Their Storyline: